

Ogden Custom Homes –

Over the course of the past twenty years, I have built five houses for personal use and another thousand for the trade. Therefore I have experienced both the jubilation and the frustrations associated with the “building experience”. Chris Ogden of Ogden Custom Homes does an incredible job of minimizing the pain and maximizing the joy associated with the process.

Whenever you build a custom house things will go wrong, the test of a great builder is how quickly and professionally they handle these issues. Mr. Ogden handles all problems regardless of their size with the same sense of urgency – getting it done now! Our neighbors were amazed at the responsiveness of Ogden Custom Home and they tried to hold their builders to the same standard – with no luck!

Chris provides the level of support that you desire: if you are a hands on; sweat every detail & cornice or if you prefer to cruise along for the ride, he will accommodate your involvement. He also provides consultation regarding the resale of your home, helping you make decisions that could facilitate the movement of your property down the road.

The final test of any builder is the question, “Would you use them again?” The answer with Ogden Custom Homes is a resounding – “Yes”!
